Excerpt from Historical Sketch of the First Baptist Church of Christ in Plymouth, Mass., 1809-1855 After requisite preliminary meetings. On the 12th of July, 1809, at nine o'clock in the morning, a little company of brethren and sisters, holding Baptist views, was gathered at the house of Stephen Bartlett, anticipating recognition as a Church of Christ after the New Testament pattern. Unworthy and ungracious in their own estimation, they are worthy esteem for the sterling qualities of their convictions and of their Christian lives. One of the twenty eight was from Middleboro, one from Kingston, one from Carver, and the rest of the seven men and three times seven women belonged to Plymouth. The council convened was composed of the pastor and one delegate from each of the following churches, viz.: First in Middleboro, Third in Boston, Third in Middleboro, First in Kingston, Third in Tiverton, and the records of their proceedings inclose names never to be forgotten in the history of Baptist principles in the Old Colony: Samuels, Nelson, Glover and Abbott. Excerpt from Beaver Dam Baptist Church: Historical Sketch, 1850-1950 We the Authors of this historical sketch, wish }to express our sincere appreciation to the many people who have assisted us in making this book possible. If this book meets with any degree of success, the credit in a large measure is due to the membership of the church for their loyal support of the project. We wish especially to express our appreciation to Mr. And Mrs. T. P. Hamrick for the information they so graciously furnished, as well as old Church records they furnished us access to. We are also indebted to Mrs. J. G. Greene for the many hours she spent as our Secretary in preparing the information contained in this. Book, so that it might be turned over to the printers. It would also be an act of ingratitude not to mention those who through the years have kept the records of the Church, for. Without these records, {this historical sketch would not have been possible. About the Publisher Forgotten Books publishes hundreds of thousands of rare and classic books. This resolution was sustained by Br. J. Peck, in remarks giving a brief but deeply interesting account of the origin and progress of this body; after which the following resolution was unanimously passed: Resolved, That Bru. J. Peck and J. Lawton be requested to draw up a succinct and consecutive account Of the origin and progress of this Convention, for publication under the direction of the Board. In compliance' with the above we undertook the work. In View of the whole subject, however, we thought that a full exhibition of the wonderful dealings Of Providence with the Baptist denomination in western New York would require an account Of their settlement and early history in this section. We have therefore given a brief sketch of many incidents which occurred at this early day, connected with the progress of religion and the establishment Of churches. The task, we found, was indeed laborious for, as we intended that our narrative should be strictly authentic, nothing was to be taken on trust, and we were required to make thorough and patient search for such documents as would afford the necessary information.
